FIREMEN USE NEW PUMPER

Extinguish Blaze On Park Mt. Road With New Equipment—Well of Water On Property And Fire Put Out In Eleven Minutes—Make Record Run.

On Friday afternoon the local fire department received a call to the farm home of Alex Batrenchuk, lot 3, con. 4, (Park Mountain Road), where on arrival they found a hole burned through the roof and allegedly discovered fire in three or four different places in the upstairs and the attic. Where the fire originated firemen claim to have found rags partly burned and smelling strongly of kerosene. The blaze had not gained much headway owing to the fact that there was little or no draft in the attic.

On seeing the fire a passing farmer rushed into the premises while his helper went to the nearest telephone to summon help. Batrenchuk was not at home at the time but with the aid of neighbours, all the contents were carried to safety.

Damage, mostly by water, amounted to less than $100. Chief Demille requested that a provincial fire marshal's investigation into circumstances surrounding the fire be made.

For the first time in their experience the Grimsby firemen utilized Grimsby's new fire pumper. On the property was a well filled with water and eleven minutes after the truck arrived, the fire was extinguished.

From the time the alarm was received here until the truck arrived at the fire, a distance of nearly four miles, there was a lapse of but twelve minutes, an unusual record, particularly in view of the fact that the brigade is a volunteer one.

Squeezing Berry Boxes New "Racket" Dealer Convicted

A "racket" whereby some unscrupulous fruit dealers short-weight customers by squeezing in the sides of boxes in which berries, etc., are sold, is being sternly suppressed. H. H. Fonton, district fruit inspector for the Dominion fruit branch, department of agriculture, announced Friday morning. Thursday in Toronto a dealer was convicted on such a charge and fined $25. Wherever the practice is detected, the inspector warned, prosecutions will follow. By squeezing the sides of the boxes, the inspector explained, the cubical content of the box is decreased, and as a result the customer receives less than that to which one is entitled under the act controlling the packing of fruit in boxes.

Grape Crop Is Normal One—Growers' Winery Is Advocated

The general opinion of some sixty members of the Beamsville local of the Niagara Peninsula Grape Growers' association, meeting in the town hall last Friday night was that the grape crop throughout the entire district this season was only a normal one and not the bumper crop that has been forecasted by some over-optimistic reviewers. President Richard Morley thought it was about time the association established a winery of its own, and that was the only way the growers of grapes to get a fair price for their product. Arthur Smith, of Vineland, a member of the committee appointed to draft the clauses of the grape marketing scheme and also one of the deputation that went to Ottawa to present the scheme before the federal officials, told the members the reasons the draft was not workable and why it was not acceptable to the departmental authorities. If the bulk of the grapes were marketed outside the province, the scheme would have gone through, he said. Now the province would accept the scheme if the wineries were left out of the picture. The smaller wineries offer fifty dollars a ton, with a five-year contract, provided they have outlets for their wine, through the establishment of wine stores.

Travelling Bag And Gift of Money Presented To Father Canning

The high regard and esteem in which Rev. Father Canning is held was evidenced on Monday evening when members of the Roman Catholic churches of Grimsby and Smithville gathered to honor him prior to his removal to Port Colborne to which charge he was recently appointed.

After members of the congregation had testified to his estimable qualities and to his devotion to the interests of the two congregations, he was presented with a gift of money and a handsome travelling bag on behalf of these two parishes which he has served so faithfully for the past few years. Father Canning made a suitable response.

The ladies of the church afterwards served lunch, the event being held on the lawn adjacent to Father Canning's home, Paton Street.

YATES—WALKER

Old St. Andrew's Church, Grimsby, was the scene of one of the season's prettiest weddings on Saturday afternoon, August 3rd, when June Hildegarde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gillard Walker, Grimsby, was married to Ralph William Francis Yates of Port Hope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yates of Preston. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Vionnet model of calla lily satin. Her tulle veil, worn from a halo, fell gracefully beyond the end of the long fishtail train of her gown, and was inset with an exquisite old Venetian lace veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily-of-the-valley. The three attendants wore taffeta gowns of Robert Piquet design with matching tulle hats. Miss Lila Walker, sister of the bride, and her maid of honor, was in daffodil yellow; Miss Lois Hawke, cameau auve, and Miss Kathleen Brereton, in cascade green. They carried arm bouquets of Claudius Pernet roses and blue delphinium tied with moire and gold ribbon. Mr. J. C. Erb of Owen Sound was groomsmen, and the ushers were Mr. S. L. B. Martin of Hamilton and Mr. W. B. W. Baldwin of Toronto. Rev. J. Alan Ballard conducted the ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Nicholson. The chancel of the church was decorated with white gladioli, white palms and ferns, banked at the end of the choir pews, formed a background for the bridal party. Masses of summer flowers in shades of mauve and yellow decorated the church. Clusters of flowers tied with white ribbon marked the guest pews.

After the ceremony a reception was held at "Woodleigh Place", home of the bride's parents, at which one hundred and thirty guests attended. Mrs. Walker received the guests, wearing a graceful gown of pink lace, with beehive and beehive hat, trimmed with pink rosebuds. Mrs. Yates, mother of the groom who received with Mrs. Walker, was gown in blue and white flowered chiffon with white accessories.

A list of telegrams conveying congratulations and good wishes was read during the afternoon from the following: Mrs. George T. Hildebrand, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. P. Ketchum, Pointe au Baril, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie, Montreal; Mr. Grant MacMillan, Port Hope; Rev. John Edward and Mrs. Boulden, Sidney, N.S.; Mrs. Norman Taylor, Oshawa; Rev. and Mrs. Hagmann, Preston; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kemp, South Orange, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Port Hope; Miss Bertha Symonds, Windsor, N.S.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Erb, Preston; Rev. Gerald Graham, Lynhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates left later for a trip to Quebec and the Saguenay. The bride travelled in a tailored costume of powder blue with swaggar coat, trimmed with duobonnet. Her hat was a model of duobonnet felt and her duobonnet shoes were fitted with powder blue. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Yates will live at Trinity College School, Port Hope where Mr. Yates is headmaster of the Junior School. Mr. Yates was a member of the staff of Lake Lodge School here for two years prior to removing to Port Hope.

LIBERAL LEADER OPENS CAMPAIGN

Platform Includes National Commission On Relief Work And Unemployment Insurance, Lower Tariffs, Wider Markets, A Balanced Budget, National Control of Credit, Maintenance of C.N.R. As Publicly Owned And Controlled Service, Electoral Reform And Free Speech.

During the past week the Liberal Leader, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King in three nation-wide broadcasts over the radio, set forth the policy of the Liberal party.

A fourteen point program was outlined. Summarized the planks were as follows:

National Commission on relief work and unemployment insurance.

Reciprocal trade pacts with other countries and Canadian tariff reform.

Internal trade expansion by ending artificial price control and agreements in restraint of trade.

Development of primary industries.

National control of credit.

An Investment Control Board.

Maintenance of the Canadian National Railways as a publicly owned and controlled service.

Democratization of industry.

Abolition of "blank cheque" legislation.

Free speech, free association and repeal of Section 98.

Electoral reform.

A balanced Budget.

Peace and good-will in international affairs.

More equitable distribution of wealth.

Deploing the multiplicity of parties into which political thought in Canada was now ranged, Liberal Leader W. L. Mackenzie King in his first radio broadcast on Wednesday night, July 31, attributed departure from the old bi-party system to his Conservative opponents. Previous regimes of the Conservative party had been featured by the rise of "third" groups, he said; and the five-year tenure of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was no exception.

Return to Parties

In his half-hour radio speech the Liberal leader went into the history of parliamentary government, the growth of the present system and the rise during times of social and economic stress of groups which adhered to none of the old parties. History had disclosed when normal times returned such groups invariably returned to the parties to which they had formerly belonged.

Tendencies in older countries, however, had been to move away from parliamentary institutions. Mr. King cited Russia, Germany and Italy. People had there accepted the domination of individuals or minority groups. He feared such a trend in Canada and expressed himself strongly in support of continuing parliamentary government in this country.

He urged the electors of Canada to accord the Liberal party a clear overall majority in order that the country might enjoy governmental stability. At this time it would be greatly to the disadvantage of the country to have the party in office dependent for its administrative life on the support of a third party.

Those who were vocal in support of the newer groups, said they would be satisfied with holding the balance of power. Mr. King denounced this attitude of mind and deplored any small group of men should enjoy power without responsibility.

There was nothing sinister or wrong about political parties, he said.

Even Mr. Woodsworth and Mr. Stevens, the Liberal leader continued, "who seek to create a prejudice in your minds against what they speak of as the two old political parties, have found it necessary in order to further the aims they have in view to organize political parties of their own. Are their aims any the less genuine because they are being championed by a political party? Would these parties be any the less worthy of support if, in addition to their names they had great traditions and had fought from generation to generation for the ends they profess to be seeking to serve?"

"You will do well, especially where there is a tendency to tear up everything by the roots and to get aboard the last carry all that comes along to see that the vehicle to which, for the next five years, you intend to trust your individual fortunes and the political and economic life of our country, is made of something more substantial than the banners pinned to its (Continued on page 5)

MUST CHECK RELIEF OUTLAYS

Premier Hepburn Says Continuance Too Heavy Drain On Treasury.

As he answered critics of his government's decision to cut relief contributions, Premier Hepburn, in a formal statement indicated continuation of an extravagant relief system would certainly have led to the province's bankruptcy.

"The province is approaching a crisis," he declared, "and unless the drain on the treasury is checked the province will be insolvent and will be unable to render further financial assistance to the municipalities."

Maintaining it was not the intention of the government to shift the financial burden to the municipalities, the premier declared the reorganization was as much in the interest of the municipalities as of the province and he urged co-operation in seeking a solution of the problem.

"Relief in this province has been a racket with a proportion of those on relief," he said, "and it is inconceivable this province could be expected to continue to pay over 60 per cent. of its entire revenue for relief purposes. No government can stand this and no system of taxation could raise sufficient money to enable the province to balance its budget under such impossible conditions."

"To continue at the present rate would mean that the resources of this province would ultimately be owned not by the province but by the financial interests and the money lenders and the financial result would be to jeopardize the equity of the home owners in their own property. And if this equity is lost how can the municipalities collect their local taxes?"

"The whole relief situation," he concluded, "both from a financial and administrative point of view is due for a thorough housecleaning and is going to get it."

Jail Sentences Imposed In Police Court

Two cases were disposed of in police court at Grimsby on Tuesday before Magistrate Campbell.

Douglas Johns pleaded guilty to charges of breaking, entering and theft at Moore's Theatre on Nov. 29th, 1933 when a purse belonging to Mrs. Shafer containing $24.00 was stolen. While she was absent in the show, he watched an opportunity to enter it unobserved and appropriated the purse. Young Johns who is seventeen years of age, was given 30 days in jail. He was arrested by Chief Demill on Saturday.

Jack Smith, arrested by Constable Turner on Saturday evening on a charge of drunkenness, took 10 days in county jail in lieu of a fine of $17.75 imposed by the magistrate.

Stolen Tools Found Or Promises—Two Men Are Arrested

John Frost of Fulton and John Smith of Dintbrook Township were taken into custody by Provincial Constable Robble last week. On the premises at Fulton where they operated a garage was found some three to four hundred dollars' worth of stolen tools and equipment with which they operated their garage. With the arrest it is believed a number of district thefts will be cleared up as a quantity of the equipment was identified by Graham's Garage at Vineland where goods were stolen on May 24th, Roy Maycock, Calstar Township, about a month ago, the Elfrida Garage and A. Jerome, North Glanford township. A loaded revolver and a billy were also seized on the premises by the police.

After spending the night in the local cells the two men were taken before Magistrate Campbell in St. Catharines Court on Thursday on charges of breaking and entering and theft.

The case was remanded for one week when they appeared in Smithville on Wednesday afternoon.

Numerous friends in Grimsby and district will regret to learn of the tragic death of Mr. Alexander Grant Geddes, son of Mrs. Isaac Geddes of Winona and brother of Mr. W. F. Geddes of North Grimsby. He was instantly killed about dusk on Sunday evening while walking along the highway near his home at Taft near Orlando, Florida. INTERESTING EVENTS AT GRIMSBY BEACH

Carnival Was Pronounced Success—Cafeteria Tea Enjoyable Event—Many Activities On Civic Holiday.

There was no lack of interesting events at Grimsby Beach Park over the week-end and on Civic Holiday, a large number attending.

One of the big events of the week-end was the carnival held on Friday and Saturday evenings last which was again a pronounced success, special features adding to the attractiveness of the event which was held under the auspices of the Young People's Society. The grounds were beautifully decorated for the occasion.

The Kings of the Air was the feature presentation, a group of tight rope and acrobatic performers, including clowns, giving exhibitions of their skill, providing a very entertaining program. Excellent music was furnished by the Grimsby band.

The booths on the grounds attracted a large number and the carnival furnished two enjoyable evenings for the cottagers as well as for many others present from the town and surrounding district.

Splendid leadership was given at the carnival by Jack Bennett, president of the organization and Dick Davidson, director of recreational activities.

On Civic Holiday interesting demonstrations of group games and contests and story telling were given. In Bell Park Dick Davidson was in charge and in the Children's playground, Miss Harriet Smith.

A jitney was held by the lawn bowlers, the winners being Fred Schultz, Starr Benson, J. H. Gibson and J. Jeffries. The consolation prizes were won by W. J. Pittfield and D. Simpson, and mystery prizes were won by D. Whyte and C. Rhodes.

At Saturday afternoon's jitney, the leading prize winners were J. Jeffries, F. T. Shoebridge, D. Whyte, G. Billingshurst and S. Benson.

In the Tabernacle on Sunday Rev. Dr. Charles, rector of the Church of St. Mark, Brooklyn, N. Y. was the speaker morning and evening, giving forceful discourses while pleasing musical numbers were furnished by Miss May Buskard, Brantford and Mr. John Rowcroft and Mrs. Robert Hobson, Hamilton.

On Civic Holiday many patronized the Home Cooked Cafeteria Tea held on the lawn in front of Mrs. Martin's residence, under the auspices of the Woman's Improvement Society. It proved a most enjoyable event.

The annual Sports Day will be held in Bell Park on Saturday afternoon, August 17th, while the annual Playground Concert will be held in the evening of the same day.

Hon H. H. Stevens Candidate In East Kootenay, B.C.

A pressing need for some governmental agency to guard the interests of the agriculturist was seen by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstruction party leader.

Mr. Stevens after being chosen unanimously as candidate for the Reconstruction party in his constituency of East Kootenay, addressed a mass meeting with a plea for employment of Canada's youth and protection of farmers' interests.

He discussed immediate steps for unemployment alleviation by means of public works. Completion of the trans-Canada highway and construction of roads from the United States border to National Parks in the Dominion were stressed. Removal of level crossings was another plan.

A housing program which would enable Canada to fill pressing needs was emphasized.

"As sure as the sun rises if I get a chance the farmer will have the first opportunity and not the packer," he declared.

NOTICE

A meeting of those interested in the Reconstruction Party will be held in the Masonic Hall, on Monday, August 12th, at 8.30 o'clock p.m., D.S.T., for the purpose of forming a Stevens Club in the municipalities of Grimsby and North Grimsby.

Nationality Rights For Married Women

London—The House of Commons recently received a petition signed by leaders of 100 women's organizations throughout the Empire, including Canada, seeking removal of disabilities of married women in questions of citizenship.

Mrs. H. B. Tate, Conservative M. P., presented the petition, with signatures of women in Canada, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Ceylon and Bermuda.

It asks the House to give legal effect without further delay to the statement of policy enunciated by the British Government at Geneva in 1921 that all disabilities of married women in matters of nationality be removed, and urges that so far as nationality is concerned a married woman should be in the same position as a man or a single woman.

The petition will go before a committee of the House.

Relief Families Produce Model

King, Ont. — Three miles from this town, 25 miles north of Toronto, there is a settlement of 14 houses. There 117 men, women and children—all from Toronto's relief ranks, live happily and well.

The project, known as the King Ridge Settlement, was founded a year ago by Rev. Father F. J. McGuey. He began with five families and a loan of a 30-acre farm. Each family was given two acres to work and 50 chickens. The rest of the land was the community's.

Two cows and some pigs were put on the project. Crops were planted. Three months later they went off to relief. By fall they had not only enough produce for the winter but were able to sell 970 bags of potatoes and carrots. St. Clare parish, Toronto, bought them at $1 a bag, which gave each family nearly $200.

This spring a 50-acre farm was purchased nearby and 17 more families were taken out. Each of the original families was given a 10-acre plot, a cow, a horse and a seven-room home which everyone is helping to build. The newcomers are starting as the original five did a year ago.

"It's like a training school the first year," said Father McGuey.

Last winter a disused building was fitted up for a school and a teacher taught 20 pupils during the term. This fall 40 will attend. In the community there is a workman from every trade except that of a farmer. "But," said Father McGuey, "we're not in competition with farmers. We're not here to make a lot of money, but a living."

English Feminists Denounce Policy Of German Government

London—Leaders of the woman's movement were indignant at refusal by the German embassy here to receive a delegation of English women to protest against the "anti-feminist policy" of the Third Reich.

The scheduled protest was to have been made to German Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch but the embassy announced the delegation would not be received because the reception had been announced before the embassy had given its consent.

The delegates, composed of women from all classes of life, had intended to denounce the German Government's action in barring women from a number of professions and, according to the British feminists, handicap placed in the way of feminine higher education.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR TOURIST TRADE

The prospects for the tourist trade this year are very bright, judging from the number of enquiries received by the hotels and resorts. There should also be an increase in the number of anglers and big game hunters visiting Canada. Steamship officials are expecting a better season than last through the port of Montreal, which is an indication of the improvement which has taken place in trade, particularly within the Empire.

CLIVE BROOK PLANS TO MAKE HOME IN ENGLAND

Southampton, Eng.—Clive Brook, the British movie actor, arrived here recently and said he was giving up his home in Hollywood and would henceforth make England his headquarters.

SHE SHOULD!

Madison, Wis.—Mrs. Henry Halvorsen, 46, lay on a hospital bed recovering from her 17th childbirth in 23 years. She discussed birth control.

Start Of C.N.E. Swim

The Week In Ottawa

Before Prime Minister Bennett left for the seaside last week to rest up before getting into the election campaign, he announced a number of long-awaited appointments, with the exception, however, of cabinet appointments. There he is expected to announce upon his return.

Ten Senate vacancies were filled by Mr. Bennett, and included in the list was Mrs. Iva Campbell Fells of Peterborough, Ontario, wife of a farmer. Her appointment makes the second woman to sit in the Red Chamber. Mrs. Fells has worked unflinchingly for the Bennett Government, and the honor bestowed upon her is regarded to be well merited. Four men were appointed to the judiciary, three to the Unemployment and Social Insurance Commission and one was named commissioner of patents.

Few, if any, of the appointments came as a surprise. Col. the Hon. G. S. Harrington, former Nova Scotia Premier, will head the Unemployment Insurance Commission, with Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, representing the labor element, and N. R. Haudet, Montreal insurance manager, representing employers. The commission will get down to work almost immediately.

The Senate appointment were: Nova Scotia—Hon. Edgar N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, Ottawa; Col. Thos. Cantley, M.P., Pictou; P. P. Quinn, M.P., Halifax; J. L. Q. Robichau, merchant-farmer, Maxwellton, Digby County.

Prince Edward Island—Hon. J. A. Macdonald, Minister without Portfolio.

Ontario—Hon. Donald M. Sutherland, former member of Parliament, Ingersoll; Col. James Arthur, M.P., Parry Sound.

New Brunswick—Hon. George P. Jones, Apohaqui, Royal.

Quebec—Hon. Arthur Sauve, St. Eustache, Postmaster-General.

James Thompson Mitchell, Ottawa, at present acting commissioner, will be commissioner of patents.

Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin, of Guelph, who has been on the Ontario Supreme Court bench for only three years, goes to the Supreme Court of Canada bench to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Justice Frank Hughes; Mr. Justice Kerwin will be succeeded by Charles T. McTague, K.C., of Windsor. Hon. Alfred Durnan, Minister of Marine, succeeds Mr. Justice Coderre on the Quebec Superior Court bench, and D. McKinnon, K.C., of Charlottetown is appointed district judge in admiralty, Prince Edward Island.

Official approval has been given the government's dairy products marketing equalization scheme, which is designed to assist in the maintenance of the cheese branch of the dairy industry. The scheme also aims to stabilize the price of milk entering into the manufacture of cheese at a somewhat higher level than can be realized from the proceeds of the sale of cheese. A fund has been provided by Parliament out of which it is intended that payments on the basis of the quantity of cheese manufactured will be made. Farmers who desire such payments must apply to the Dairy and Cold Storage Commission, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Payments received by factories from the dairy products equalization fund must be apportioned among milk suppliers in the same manner as proceeds from the sale of cheese.

In a very short time the government will announce the list of approved loaning companies to which borrowers may apply for benefits under the $10,000,000 government scheme to build new houses. This will be the first concrete step towards bringing the plan into operation possibly by the end of August.

Canada is the chief source of supply for flour of the United Kingdom, followed by Australia and France. Canada supplied 44.7 per cent. of the flour imports into the United Kingdom during 1934.

Poisoned Atmosphere Gives Peers Headache

London—The House of Lords had a headache recently.

Peers lodged pleas for air conditioning, "like they have in the U.S. Senate," and asked the Government to have a chemist investigate the "poisoned atmosphere" in their chamber.

"It is a scandal that their lordships must suffer severe headaches because they are so public spirited they leave the fresh air of their country homes for duty in the House of Lords where atmosphere is saturated with poison," Marquis Lillington said.

Memorial Planned For T. E. Lawrence

London—A memorial to T. E. Lawrence—Lawrence of Arabia—is to be placed in St. Paul's Cathedral near the tomb of Lord Nelson and other great British heroes. The dean and the chapter of St. Paul's offered space for the memorial. It will be a bronze head, modelled from life by Eric Kennington. Only the words, "Lawrence of Arabia" will be cut in the stone of the wall underneath it. An appeal for funds for the memorial was issued last week.

Canada Gets Sponges From The Bahamas

Canada gets a considerable portion of her sponges "a la nature" from the Bahamas, British West Indies, and also, during the winter season, large quantities of fresh tomatoes. Canada, in fact, is the best customer of the Bahamas, the islands selling more goods to Canada than the United Kingdom or the United States, their next best customers. The Bahamas have a wide variety of exports which include, in addition to raw tomatoes and sponges, such commodities as lumber, fresh fish, salt, hemp, cascarilla bark, marine curries, hides and skins, conch shells and tortoise shell. Canada secured 18.5 per cent. of the Bahamas' exports for the year 1934. The United States got 34.7 per cent., and the United Kingdom, 25 per cent. Other countries got 19.8 per cent.

New Textile Material From Flax And Cotton

The discovery of a new textile material, a mixture of flax fibre and raw cotton, in England, is expected to have an important effect on the linen and cotton trades. The "cutting" material is known as "Merlin" and the process of being developed by a large Manchester cotton firm. Under the new process the fibre is extracted from the flax by machinery without the necessity of soaking or wetting. It is unadorned flax fibre, heretofore allowed to go to waste, can also be used. The new fabric looks like linen and is less liable to crease. There is a possibility of the process being introduced into Canada if it proves successful.

Company to Process Soy a Bean Crop

MILL TO OPEN AT STRATFORD—FARMERS IN FIFTEEN COUNTIES SIGN

Stratford—Soya Mills Limited of Toronto recently purchased the McLeod Mill here for the sum of $5,000. The new company, headed by T. D. Bell of Toronto, as president and general manager, plans to mill flour from soya beans and feed meal and oil as well as other by-products. The mill will be equipped and ready for operations around the middle of October, the president reports.

Associated with Mr. Bell is H. P. T. Trickey, who is rated as one of the foremost authorities in Canada on soya beans. Mr. Bell was head of the milling department of Canadian Alis Chalmers Co., who installed the first Soya bean mill in China forty-six years ago.

"Farmers in fifteen counties in Ontario have contracted their crops with the company," states Mr. Bell. Seed was provided where previously none was available. The company expects to import enough beans, if Ontario's crop does not prove large enough, to operate the mill for 240 days continuous operation. It is estimated when the mill is operating it will require approximately twenty employees.

A Few Holidays For Our Wives

Under the caption, "A Few Holidays For Our Wives," the Huntingdon Gleaser makes some apt remarks which are well worth reproducing. The Gleaser comments as follows:

The world has always leaned toward a dramatization of its problems. Humanity likes to set a play against to represent some class or section to which its attention has been drawn. So we have the man with the hoe, the man in the street, the unknown soldier and, more lately, the forgotten man.

All of these figures have appeared across the stage of public notice on occasion, sometimes in an attempt to arouse public sentiment, to draw attention to existing inequalities, as the man with the hoe was used to call attention to the great mass of inarticulate labor. So in the last presidential campaign we had the forgotten man to typify the multitude of humble sufferers who bore the heaviest burden and suffered the sharpest pangs in the war against depression.

It has remained for Sweden to call attention to a group that is wider than any yet covered by a lay figure, a group that stands behind all the four mentioned above, that has suffered the stress of all these classes without any of the publicity they have been accorded. There has been a word of tribute now and then, but for the most part a wide and deep silence.

The General Swedish Electric Co. on the occasion of its fiftieth anniversary announced that it has set aside a fund of $100,000 to provide vacations for the wives of small salaried employees of the company.

In taking this step, the Swedish concern decided that those who work behind the scenes, benefitting the company indirectly by looking after the men, were most in need of consideration. It was found that wives seldom had time for a complete rest.

Someone should outline a figure to represent the woman behind the factory whistle, whose work begins long before the workers take their places at machines or bench, and continues long after spindle and lathe are silent; whose work year runs into 365 days, who is the first one to feel the pinch when work falls, and the last one to benefit by a pick-up. Should such a figure be drawn in its proper scale, it would perhaps make pictures of the four already.

Women Take Duties More Seriously Than Men Do

St. Andrews, N.B.—"Naturally, I think it will be much better to have another woman in the Senate," Senator Carine Wilson said at her summer home here regarding the appointment of Mrs. Howard T. Farris, Peterborough, Ont., to the Red Chamber.

"After all," she remarked with a smile, "women take these things more seriously than men." Adding that she had grown "quite accustomed" to being Canada's only woman senator, Senator Wilson said she was unacquainted with the new member and looked forward to meeting her.

Senator Wilson received her appointment in February, 1930.

Ottawa—A proclamation was issued recently naming October 14th as Thanksgiving Day. Since Remembrance Day is commemorated in November, it has become the custom during the last few years to hold Thanksgiving Day on the second Monday of November.

Safe Flying After Two Hours' Flying Foreseen In U.S.

DETROIT—Airplanes that may be flown safely by novices after two hours instruction and practically land themselves can be built to sell for $700, Eugene Vidal, Federal Director of Air Commerce, said recently. Here to attend the All-American Aircraft Show at Detroit Municipal Airport, Vidal told of the progress being made toward low cost, fool proof plane a project in which the Department of Commerce is greatly interested.

"At least three of our projects are very promising," he said. "The ships can be flown safely by novice pilots. They do not spin. They land themselves hands off, or with the stick all the way back, from 200 feet."

One of the ships that meets the requirements of the Department of Commerce is a tailless high wing monoplane, Vidal said. It has a two-piece cabin and a 95 horsepower pusher engine.

"We are ready to give this machine an approved type certificate and it is ready to be flown east by a novice pilot. We tried for two weeks to spin it and couldn't."

Couldn't Eat Farmer's Produce He Sold It To Them Too Cheap

Montreal—Summer residents of Lake Louise, Laurentian resort, 68 miles from here, joined in a complaint about the prices charged for his produce by a Montreal office man turned farmer.

The complaint was that he was not charging enough for the butter, eggs, mutton and vegetables he supplies to the cottagers around the lake. He was informed that he could not possibly make a profit at the prices he was charging and was urged to raise them.

The man, who took up farming this year when a breakdown of health drove him from the city, promptly obliged and the cottagers are now eating with a free conscience.

SOUTH AFRICAN PARENTS OPPOSE CO-EDUCATION

Parents in Riversdale, S. Africa, do not believe in co-education for their children and by a sweeping majority they turned down a proposal to amalgamate the Boys and Girls' High Schools.

MARCH OF SILENCE.

While complaint had only been made about a canine growler, the roosters and ducks were included "just in case."

NAME YOUR MAN.

Name badgers are now pinned on employees of Dominion Stores. And both customers and employees seem to like it. RECIPROCITY AMONG TOURISTS

The holiday exodus on the great American national day, July 4th, in terms of motor touring tourists entering Canada this year, created a record, and moreover exceeded the returns in 1929, hitherto a peak year. This is most gratifying news to those Canadians who think of Canada's prosperity in terms of mounting tourist figures. Three days previous to this great American holiday trek to Canada, the Dominion herself celebrated a national day. It would be interesting to know the figures of Canadian motorists crossing the international border on July 1st, but the comparison would have to be worked out on a percentage basis of total population.—Ottawa Citizen.

TAXES COMING ON.

The first six months of this year has seen $80,000 more paid in Edmonton taxes than did the first six months of last year. Here's hoping the increase will keep on increasing.—Edmonton Journal.

KEEP YOUR STUBS.

It will undoubtedly come as a shock to most persons in Ontario, that, under the amusement tax regulations now in force, failure on the part of a patron at any place of amusement to retain his stub of the amusement tax ticket is punishable by a fine of from $10 to $200 under the Primary Convictions Act.

The actual requirement in the regulations is that the person admitted must produce his portion of the tax ticket on demand of any inspector of the amusement revenue branch or police officer, and lack of such receipt is regarded as prima facie evidence that the act had been evaded.

If there are any illusions that these drastic rules are not to be enforced they can be dismissed.—Peterboro Examiner.

Piping A New Tune

A long time has passed since pipings have been a haute couture style for dresses, but at this midseason, Lanvin does some charming things with silver pipings on black tulle or white crepe or even on pale blue linen. Lelong is another to endorse pipings; and Mainbocher shows a red crepe afternoon dress with velvet piping in matching tone.

Sisters Meet After Forty-One Years

A Song of Canada

Lilian Leveridge in the New Outlook There is a song of Canada Which only they can hear To whom the name of Canada, The name and fame of Canada, Are intimately dear. 'Tis whispered by the leaves at night With tender, delicate delight; 'Tis echoed in the mighty tone Of winds that race from zone to zone, From height to lonely height. There is a song of Canada— A thousand years ago The Indian mother hushed her child With these melodious wood-notes wild, In morn and evening glow. She learned it from the lips of flowers, From warbling birds and twinkling showers, From stars and snows, and foaming streams, From mirth and music, love and dreams, In rosy, rapturous hours.

There is a song of Canada— Our heroes knew it well— A song of love for Canada, Of long love for Canada, Too deep for words to tell. It breathes in ev'ry over-brown, In burdens borne and lives laid down. By honors won with hands unstained, By plenty, power and peace attained, Its glorious theme is known.

France to Speed Warship Building

Necessary Through Anglo-German Navy Pact, Pietri States.

Brest—France must speed the building of capital ships as a result of the Anglo-German naval agreement. Francois Pietri, Minister of the Navy, said here recently, characterizing Britain's negotiation of the agreement as imprudent. Speaking before members of the Chamber of Deputies, who had attended his review of the French fleet, M. Pietri said the Anglo-German agreement was a "grave event" that had disturbed the status of European naval forces. "What surprised us in the Anglo-German agreement," he said, "was not the fact of further German rearmament, for this was easy to foresee, but the haste with which England adhered to it under conditions that might make us doubt not only its friendship but its traditional prudence."

"The sudden four-fold increase of the third Reich's tonnage should constrain France to follow up some forgotten maritime accord, to concentrate our efforts in first-line ships."

10,000 Jobless to Attend School

Los Angeles—Ten thousand students began matriculating recently in perhaps the strangest school in the United States.

The pupils will be paid to attend classes, and will be decked when they miss a day.

The unique educational experiment, sponsored jointly by the Los Angeles County Relief Administration and the Department of Public Instruction calls for a total expenditure of $1,064,000.

Students to be accepted are persons on the county relief rolls. The scheme was conceived to help them acquire instruction in a wide range of studies which they otherwise would not receive.

A three-hour class five days a week in a particular subject will be offered. The students will be paid a weekly wage at regular work relief rates, and as on work projects will lose a day's pay when they miss school.

Courses in clerical and secretarial work, accounting, salesmanship, automotive, electrical, drafting, building trades, textile, foods, cosmetology, printing, horticulture, landscape gardening and animal husbandry are on the schedule.

VIOLENT DEATHS

It will perhaps come as somewhat of a surprise to the majority of Canadians to be told that the total number of deaths in Canada during 1934 from violent causes was 6,448. That is an astounding statement, and one that should cause considerable thought. If a town with a population of between six and seven thousand persons were completely wiped out by some sudden catastrophe it would shock the whole country. Because the deaths are widely scattered all over the Dominion the realization of the calamity is less vivid.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

Additional Constables Detailed to Traffic Patrol—Car Inspection and Advertising Campaign.

Toronto.—To cope with the rising tide of deaths from automobile accidents in Ontario, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways and Acting Attorney-General, has announced 12 constables had been added to the provincial force, most of them detailed to the highway traffic patrol.

Provision for additional traffic police marked the latest step in Mr. McQuesten's campaign to promote highway safety. Possession of a driver's license has been made the basis for enforcing the traffic laws, said the minister, and he listed two other features of his safety campaign—police inspection of motor vehicles and equipment and an advertising campaign.

Departmental records showed 202 persons had been killed in automobile accidents during the first six months of this year, compared with 164 in the corresponding period of 1934. The June death toll was 44, an increase of 12 above the May total.

"A small fine does not quite meet the situation," said Mr. McQuesten. "We will get more attention to the law if we exercise freely the cancellation of the driver's license for a term."

An act passed by the last session of the Legislature gave police power to order into a garage for inspection any motor vehicle they believed a menace to highway safety, the minister recalled.

Necessity for such inspection was stressed in a circular Mr. McQuesten and Attorney-General Roebuck sent Ontario police heads several weeks ago. This was followed by a circular to magistrates and Crown attorneys urging suspension of drivers' licenses where such a course was believed necessary.

In the first six months of this year 1,753 drivers had their licenses suspended, compared with 1,271 suspensions in the same period in 1933. Of this year's total, reckless driving accounted for 753 cancellations. Intoxication brought 204 suspensions, and drivers were barred from the roads without a license.

Ocean Passenger Traffic From Canada Increasing

Quebec.—From the opening of navigation in the St. Lawrence river April 20 until June 30 a total of 7,745 passengers left Montreal and Quebec for Europe, it was announced recently. In the same time, 7,627 passengers arrived from European ports. Both figures showed a slight increase over last year. Navigation opened a week earlier this year.

CANADA LEADS IN PLATINUM OUTPUT

Over 200,000 Ounces Production For Last Year— 55,755 Ounces in 1933

Toronto, Ont.—Canada has emerged within the last few months as the world's leading producer in platinum, following a remarkable and steady increase in the Dominion's output of this precious metal till, in 1934, the world consumption and Canadian production were almost the same.

Figures on Canadian production were discussed last week by John C. Nicholls, assistant to the president, International Nickel Company of Canada.

"We believe from a comparison of all the world production figures available, that Canada is now definitely in first place," Mr. Nicholls said. "Hitherto, Russia, with mines in the Ural mountains, has been the chief source of platinum. Reliable figures on Russian production last year cannot be secured but a study of all data on production and consumption which is to be secured, indicates that Canada has definitely taken the lead."

In 1934, Mr. Nicholls said, Canada produced slightly over 200,000 ounces of the metals of the platinum group. He thought that 1935 production would also be high.

"Platinum is a by-product of nickel production," he explained. "There is approximately one ounce of platinum in each 20 tons of copper-nickel ore from the Frood mine and the efficiency of modern milling and refining methods now makes practical the collection of the minute particles of platinum present in each ton of platinum-bearing ore."

Though platinum has been found in the nine provinces and was observed as long ago as 1862, there are no official statistics on production before 1920 and during the next 12 years, the total for the platinum group was only 419,000 ounces or slightly more than double the production during the last 12 months. For 1933, it was 55,755 ounces but the remarkable increase in copper nickel ore mined in the Sudbury basin brought the total over 200,000 ounces for last year.

"Canada is now producing on a commercial scale, five of the six precious metals in the platinum group," Mr. Nicholls says. "These are platinum, palladium, iridium, rhodium and ruthenium. All are found in the nickel-copper ores of the Sudbury basin and Canada is also the world's chief source of palladium. Osmium is the remaining metal not produced in this country."

"In addition to its use in jewelry and as a setting for gems and precious stones, platinum is widely used in industry. It also acts as a variety of chemical ringmaster, causing other elements to react while being unaffected itself."

"Education is the capacity for understanding oneself and others, and for other."—Heldene.

Was First Canadian Soldier To Set Foot In France In 1914

The first Canadian soldier to land in France in the Great War was a visitor in Stratford recently. He is Capt. H. E. Law, director of physical education in Verdun High School.

Capt. Law enlisted in the medical corps at Kingston, and was a sergeant-major in No. 2 Canadian Stationary Hospital Unit, which sailed from Southampton, on November 8, 1914, while the members of the First Canadian Contingent were still floundering in the mud of Salisbury Plains, and wondering who would have the distinction of being the first to land in France.

The departure of the hospital unit was carried out with great secrecy, and the Canadians landed at Le Havre on the morning of November 9. About 11 o'clock that morning Sergeant-Major Law of Kingston, Ontario, was marching down the gangplank. He was the first Canadian soldier exclusive of reservists who had been living in Canada and recalled to their units, to land in France. He was closely followed by Staff Sergeant McDonald of Sarnia, who was the second man ashore.

Although reluctant to discuss his war service, Capt. Law recalled the events of that morning when interviewed today.

"I recall the thing that impressed me most as we landed," he reminisced. "The kits of British officers who had been killed were piled in heaps in the shed, to be sent back to England. Most of them had bloodstains on them. That reminded us forcibly that we were going to war."

The first order which he read in camp, he recalled, was that of a member of a Wiltshire regiment had been court-martialed, and ordered shot on a charge of attempted desertion.

"The order was duly carried out at seven o'clock this morning," he recalled reading to the Canadian unit—further reminder of the grim business of war.

There was no welcome and no ceremony in connection with the landing of the first Canadian unit. The troops were met by a British R.T.O. and escorted to camp. The Canadians were under the command of Col. A. T. Shillington of Ottawa.

CHANGES IN RELIEF SYSTEM WILL COST ST. CATHARINES $40,000

Changes in the relief system of Ontario which go into effect on September 1st will cost St. Catharines at least $40,000 a year, according to Stuart K. Watt, commissioner of finance has estimated. This calculation was based on the cash disbursements, the basis on which the government pays the municipality, for the first six months of this year.

A special meeting of the council in committee will be held in a few days to consider the problem.

During that period, January 1 to June 30, the total disbursements for relief exclusive of administration amounted to $247,764 in St. Catharines. The proportion of that paid by the government was $159,103. The cost per capita of those on relief, exclusive of administration, was $8.95 per month, of which the government paid $5.76.

On a basis of $5 per capita which the province proposes as the limit after September 1, St. Catharines would have only received during the first six months of this year $138,470, and would have faced an additional expenditure of $20,633. On this basis the increased cost to the city for the year would amount to $41,267.

ST. CATHARINES MAN GETS TERM

Sentence of a jail term of one year, definite and two years, less one day, indefinite was passed in Hamilton court on Peter Kitson of St. Catharines on charges of shop-breaking and theft. Kitson was caught last week after a fierce and prolonged struggle as he and another man attempted to enter the plant of the Cash and Carry Cleaners in Hamilton.

Kitson had served two terms in the reformatory and had just been released last May on the occasion of the king's jubilee when prisoners throughout the country were released in honor of the occasion.

A convention to select a Reconstruction candidate for Lincoln county will be held within the next ten days, it is understood. It is expected that various parts of the riding will be represented and will have a voice in the selection.

A persistent rumor that a candidate had been chosen to support Mr. Stevens in Lincoln was flatly denied by Howard L. Craze, prominent member of the party. "There is absolutely no truth in it," Mr. Craze declared.

A competition in the growing of hollyhocks has been brought to notice by the production of a stalk measuring 8 feet, 8 1/4 inches in height in the garden of Mr. Ken Groat while William Hands boasts a hollyhock spike measuring just over ten feet. Mr. John Stadler believes he holds the record for corn, having on display a stalk ten feet tall, this being yellow ear corn and not the silo corn, which was planted May 23.

St. Kitts To Carry Single Relief Men

Remarking that Mayor Wilton of Hamilton and Mayor Simpson of Toronto have been acting like a couple of schoolboys, Alderman Frank Wilson, at the St. Catharines City Council meeting on Monday night, said Mayor Wilton should be urged to call a meeting of the Mayors' Association to discuss this question of single men being cut off relief. "We can't do it," said Alderman Wilson. "These men have got to be fed and they can't get work. I think we should extend the time at least a week."

Alderman Herman M. Rogers interjected that there was little use of holding a meeting, as it only furnished a platform for aspiring politicians to get off what they want to say. He said, too, that St. Catharines has already dealt with the question of single men. Those who refuse to take available jobs are cut off relief. If men can't get jobs, they will have to be fed.

Alderman Frank Coy said he didn't think it was the purpose of the Government to cut off men who cannot get work, neither is it the intention of St. Catharines.

Alderman Walter Westwood said it would only drive them to beg and panhandle. The discussion lasted over an hour, and it was finally decided to have the City Clerk write the department to ask it to make clear whether single men are to be cut off if they cannot get work. Meantime, it is the intention of St. Catharines to carry on as usual.

THE YELLOW PERIL— PERENNIAL SOW THISTLE

Like most of our weeds Perennial Sow Thistle was introduced from Europe. It was first reported in Ontario in 1887. Today, it is widely spread and has been found in every county and district in the Province. One Agricultural Representative stated at a recent meeting, that in 1928 a few farms in his county were infested and in 1934 it was found on 7,000 of the farms.

Three varieties of Sow Thistle are prevalent in Ontario and it is important that we become familiar with them. The annual varieties, common and spiny, spread only from their seed and will never become a serious menace. The perennial variety is rapidly and widely spread by means of its numerous seeds which are blown far and wide by the wind and by its abundant underground roots, which with remarkable rapidity spread through the soil sending up new shoots which cover the ground and choke out growing crops. The perennial variety may be distinguished from the annual by its numerous underground roots, deeply cut leaves with segments pointing backwards and its bright yellow flowers an inch and a half or more in diameter. The annual is shorter with fibrous roots and small yellow flowers less than half an inch in diameter. Seeds will germinate between 90-100% and require a warm moist soil.

After harvest cultivation is the cheapest and most effective method that can be adopted to control this weed. Roots are at their weakest stage at this time. Heat, sunlight and dry weather are our best partners in the war on Sow Thistle. Good clean seed, drainage, short rotations, early maturing varieties, pasturing, clovers, hood crops, annual hay and pasture mixtures and early cutting of grain and hay fields that are infested are all important factors in the control of sow thistle.

CUNNINGHAM-PARISH

The hostess was handsome in blue flowered georgette, with white accessories, and shoulder bouquet of Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother was in white crepe, with bouquet of Butterfly roses. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham left for a wedding trip to Buffalo and New York, the bride wearing a maize ensemble costume, with white accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. C. Dawe, of Winona.

ROEBUCK-GEODES

A wedding of interest was that solemnized in St. Alban's church, Beamsville, on July 31, at 2.30, when Rev. Mr. Mansell performed the ceremony.

Lower tariffs, wider markets, strict adherence to principles of responsible government, distribution of wealth with regard to human needs and social justice, freedom of speech and assembly, a balanced budget, maintenance of the integrity of the Canadian National Railways, a national central bank, and democratization of industry were among its chief headings.

No armful of promises would be offered by the Liberal party to the voters, said Mr. King. They were sick of promises and only wanted to know where parties stood on the great problems of the day. Voters should judge the promises of the coming election in the light of the failure of Prime Minister Bennett to fulfill his promises of 1930, said the Liberal leader.

The lesson of the past five years, said Mr. King, was that power alone would not enable one man to fulfill extravagant promises. Mr. Bennett had ample power and neither the House of Commons nor the Senate had ever turned down one of his important measures. His failure was due to faulty policies and no government on earth could have carried out his promises.

Consensus of Views

The Liberal policy was not the idea of one man, said Mr. King. It represented the consensus of the views of Liberals and Liberal organizations in all parts of Canada. It could be placed in effect because it had a great mony uniting in marriage Grace Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Geddes, to Mr. David Herbert Roebuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Roebuck, R. R. 3, St. Catharines. Gladioli and delphinium decorated the church. Miss Gladys West presided at the organ, and Miss Ruth Tullman sang Because. The bride was frocked in white satin, and wore a veil of net. She carried roses tied with white ribbon. Miss Irene Geddes was bridesmaid, wearing white and carrying gladioli. Mr. William Cole, St. Catharines, was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated with roses and lilies. The bride's mother received in a gown of white crepe with matching hat, and wore a bouquet of roses. The groom's mother was in white and wore a blue hat and carried roses. Mr. and Mrs. Roebuck left on a motor trip for the north, and will reside in St. Catharines. The bride wore an ensemble costume of blue for travelling.

sides and the volume of sound its musicians are capable of producing."

"Era of Prosperity"

"With the return of a Liberal administration to office and the adoption of Liberal policies carried out on broad and generous lines and with more concern for human relations than for the methods of big business and of high finance and of high pressure salesmanship, there is no reason why this period of depression should not be followed by a new era of prosperity, and why the unrest and discontent which have brought these third parties into being and to which they owe their existence, should not also disappear."

Mr. King said members of third parties remained a group or groups, "champion definite principles and policies, the situation might not be so difficult for a government to handle. They tend, however, to become not so much a group, or even groups of known mind and purpose but an aggregation with as many minds and purposes as there are individuals."

"You cannot reconstruct on quicksand any more than you can lean upon a broken reed. Any uncertainty with respect to the authority and power of the government which is to conduct the affairs of Canada during the next five years will render impossible the fulfillment of the policies necessary to bring Canada out of the depression in which she has labored for so long and will seriously militate against the accomplishment of the most necessary reforms."

"I want to say to my fellow-countrymen very earnestly, the times through which we are passing are of such a nature that no government except it be a government enjoying the most complete confidence of the people of Canada, can hope to meet the needs of the present or be equal to the grave situations by which, in any month or year, Canada may be confronted as a result of conditions at home and abroad. Stability and an unmistakable majority are more essential than ever."

The second broadcast speech of Mr. King contained declarations of principle rather than promises of results and was the policy propounded in the House of Commons by Mr. King in 1933.

Lower tariffs, wider markets, strict adherence to principles of responsible government, distribution of wealth with regard to human needs and social justice, freedom of speech and assembly, a balanced budget, maintenance of the integrity of the Canadian National Railways, a national central bank, and democratization of industry were among its chief headings.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD
You Don't Necessarily Need
An Expensive Camera

You don't need an expensive camera to get fine pictures. The one above, taken with an inexpensive camera, won the grand prize in an international contest.

THERE seems to be the belief among many people that it is necessary to own an expensive camera to take good pictures. Pages could be written describing the limitations of some and the versatility of others but as our space is limited the subject must be discussed rather briefly.

There are many types of cameras to meet every requirement of the photographer, whether he is an amateur or professional, but no camera is capable of taking all types of pictures under all conditions. It is true that some cameras are more versatile than others. One may have an extremely fast lens which permits the taking of snapshots under adverse lighting conditions and if it also has a very fast shutter you can take pictures of subjects moving at extreme speeds. Other cameras have lenses and shutters of various speeds to take pictures—and good ones—within certain limits and conditions.

What I want to impress upon you is this:—You do not necessarily have to own an expensive camera to take good pictures of the usual run of subjects. For instance, in an international amateur snapshot contest conducted not long ago by a large manufacturer of cameras, film and photographic supplies of all kinds, the Grand Prize of $10,000 was awarded the picture taken with an inexpensive camera, which goes to prove that intelligent use of a camera is the first requisite for good pictures.

The same rule applies to movie cameras—and here is the proof. Each year the American Cinematographer, a magazine published primarily for professional movie photographers, conducts an amateur movie contest and receives entries from practically every civilized country in the world.

Under the critical eyes of Hollywood's ace cinematographers, who acted as judges, small, inexpensive 8 mm. movie cameras won a brilliant victory for their owners in winning first and second awards in the 1934 competition. The final decision of these critical judges should convince the world's worst pessimist that he need not wait until he thinks he can afford an expensive movie camera before enjoying the thrills of amateur movie making.

There are thousands of people who are denying themselves one of the great pleasures of life in not owning a camera of some kind—"still" or movie—for there are models priced to meet the limitations or capacity of every pocketbook and all of them take good pictures—pictures you will enjoy now and in years to come.

STONEY CREEK
DEFEATS BEAMSVILLE

In the second game of the semi-finals of the Fruit Belt Softball league between Beamsville and Stoney Creek teams played here Friday night before a record crowd the visitors received a drubbing at the hands of the local team that was even more pronounced than that administered to Stoney Creek at Beamsville on Wednesday night in the first game of the playoffs. The score was 19-5 at the end of the eighth, when the game was called on account of darkness. The local fans got a great thrill out of the game, but the series is not over yet, the tie games forcing a play-off.

PERMIT SUSPENDED

In magistrate's court at Smithville Wednesday afternoon last, Horace Greville, Picton street east, Hamilton, was convicted of driving a truck in a reckless manner, and was fined $32.50. His driver's permit was cancelled for 90 days. The accident in which he was involved took place on No. 20 highway, near Fulton, on the evening of July 20.

THE REMARKABLE ROMANCE OF AN INDUSTRIAL DICTATOR

Velvet and Steel

By

PEARL BELLAIRS

Joan Denby of humble origin, is introduced as a social equal of Miss Georgina La Fontaine, rather than as her secretary. She meets Piers Hannon, millionaire, who forces his attentions on her. Lord Edwards proposes to Joan.

"I didn't like him," said Joan, and added, with growing desperation, "You knew I didn't like him. But you wouldn't help me, George! You took his part, I couldn't stand that. I had to do something to end it!"

"You don't stand it! My dear Joan—don't you understand that you have no hope in this world unless you can get some decent man to look after you—some man in the society to which I have fitted you. Here is Piers Hannon, eligible, young, tremendously wealthy—and honest. I know! He showed an interest in you—I am sure he was beginning to be attracted. And you deliberately take him to Hooley Street, to get away from a joke!"

Joan refrained from making matters worse by revealing the fact that Piers Hannon had asked her to marry him before she performed this terrible action which so much upset her friend; but she was growing angry herself.

"It's a superannuated notion, this idea of getting a hold of a man with an income, and marrying him for it!" she said. "If you don't like the man—if you find him actually repulsive, it's hardly moral! You can't pretend that it is, George! I'm not here to be picked out of the bunch, as it were, by any Piers Hannon who happens to come along."

But poor Miss La Fontaine was dismayed by visions of Piers Hannon eating his dinner in that terrible little home in Hooley Street; she would not be consoled, and finally Joan said, quietly:

"Honestly, George, I think you had better let me go. Don't let Heaven's sake, think me ungrateful! I am grateful—and I can never be grateful enough. But you know I have a chance of getting a job as a mannequin, at the Salon Celeste in Brook Street. I think I had better try for it!"

Miss La Fontaine was still more dismayed, but she said shortly:

"Do as you like! Stay with me—I'm only too glad to have you. But you evidently think that you can do much better for yourself!"

Joan said nothing. It was no good good arguing the point, and she was very near to tears. Miss La Fontaine gazed at her impatiently, and said:

"Just exactly like your father—in every respect!"

As Georgina had often abused Mr. Denby as being a bad husband and a waster, Joan could hardly take it as a compliment to be likened to him. It was quite impossible to stay and dispute Miss La Fontaine's wishes all the time, so it was best to go. And yet she was so fond of George! This was another shock against her name—but for him this would never have happened.

After a strained and silent morning, however, Miss La Fontaine reflected, she realised that Joan had too good a time; if she had to fend for herself, thought Miss La Fontaine, she would soon come to see things in a more sensible light. It was only natural—and if she really did dislike Piers Hannon as much as she asserted her action in taking him to Hooley Street, though utterly mad, was perhaps understandable.

"You are not going quite away from me, Joan," she said to her quietly. "You have a right to this job—and I shall ring the Salon Celeste to tell Madame Celeste that you are going round there to see her. My recommendation will help you. But I want you to come here often to see me—you'll still make a friend of me, won't you? I claim this as a right."

Relief Costs in Winnipeg Increased Half a Million

Winnipeg — Winnipeg was faced last week with mounting relief costs. At the present rate of expenditure, said City Treasurer Harry C. Thompson, Winnipeg's share of relief this year would be $2,000,000—$500,000 more than last year.

More Couples are Getting Married; Confidence Returns

Government Figures Reveal 73,023 Weddings Performed in 1934 — Largest in Five Years.

Ottawa — The fact that more young couples are now getting married and setting up house indicates, possibly better than any carefully prepared index, returning public confidence and improving economic conditions in Canada. Government statistics show that 73,023 marriages were performed in 1934 or, in other words, 146,046 persons were confident of their economic future. The number of marriages solemnized in 1934 was the largest in the past five years and represents an increase of 9,158 or 14.3 per cent. over 1933 figures. Of this total, 33,261 or less than half took place in cities and other large urban centres of 10,000 population or over.

More recent figures, covering such urban centres alone show that the marriage rate this year will be even higher than in 1934. For the first five months of 1935, January to May inclusive, 21,230 Canadians stepped up to the altar as compared with 20,798 in 1934. During the first five months of this year the province of Ontario led all other sections of the Dominion with approximately 4,667 weddings. The province of Quebec came second with 2,234, the Prairie Provinces third with 2,084, British Columbia fourth with 880 and the Maritime Provinces with 635. By cities, Toronto led with 1,990 weddings as compared with Montreal's 1,688, although the latter city showed a more marked increase over last year than did former. Winnipeg came third with 775 weddings and Vancouver fourth with 697.

The purchases of household furniture and equipment, by the newly married couples and the number of wedding presents showered on them greatly accelerates the machinery of industrial production and retail trade. This is reflected in the increases registered in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' report on the changes in the value of retail sales during the popular wedding months, particularly in the furniture store reports.

Dark Shirts Best Town Frocks For Hot Weather

"No, summer weather doesn't bother me," an executive told us last summer. "I simply refuse to think about it. After all, we always have hot days in July and August and I decided long ago that I wouldn't let them less if I stepped commenting about the temperature and thought of more pleasant things."

His idea is a good rule for all of us to follow. It tends to reason that the less you think about something unpleasant, the less it annoys you.

Since nothing you do or say will make the breezes cooler, you might as well accept the weather philosophically and forget about it.

Wear the coolest clothing you can buy, of course. This means underwear of sheer cottons (new and fashionable this season) or silks that absorb moisture and let the air get to your skin. For town, you'll probably discover that dark chiffon jacket dresses and cool-looking, short-sleeved prints are the most comfortable. White hats and other accessories make you look cool, even to yourself.

Remember to put on fresh lingerie and stockings each morning. Incidentally, it's better not to wear the same pair of shoes two days in succession. Take two baths a day—a lukewarm one before you go to bed and a cool shower when you get up in the morning.

If you are home at lunch, another shower will help you to get through the afternoon in a more peaceful manner. If not, at least wash your face, neck, arms and hands and pat on a skin tonic before you apply fresh makeup.

Regrets Bible Not More Widely Read

Lady Bridgeman, speaking at "The Church and Publicity" at the annual conference of the Press and Publications Board of the Church Assembly, said she was sorry there was a general ignorance of the simple teaching of the Bible, which was largely unlearned.

The Press provided a good example of teaching which was made use of more extensively than news that in the minds of many there was an objection to publicity and propaganda, but, speaking with all reverence, she said that Jesus Christ understood the value of and preached publicly and propaganda in preaching and in sending out his disciples as messengers.

Lion Cub's Travels India to London Zoo

London Times Weekly

Singh was born in the Zoological Gardens at Jammun towards the end of March, but there was nothing to indicate that he would soon be fated to travel as far as to Regent's Park.

The chain of events was started by a letter from a small boy in England, in which he asked his mother, then staying as a guest of His Highness the Maharajah Jam Sahib, to bring him a lion or a tiger from India. One night at dinner in the palace the request was laughingly mentioned. It met with an immediate response. Singh, the only male in a litter of three, was then and there presented to the small boy, whose mother charged herself with the transport of the gift.

Singh was then barely a fortnight old—an odd little bundle of rough fur, the size of a large kitten. Plainly, he must be gradually weaned. Accordingly, he was separated from his mother for some hours every day until he became accustomed to human beings. A strong and amply big enough travelling cage of hardwood was constructed and fitted on the outside with opaque blinds which could be pulled in order to give him the darkness which he loved.

When the time came for his final separation from his mother he was still too young to lap, and was fed at two-hourly intervals by having milk poured down his throat. He put on weight steadily, was safely transported to Bombay, given a day or two's rest there, and then placed in a sheltered nook in the liner which was to convey him to the West.

As soon as he was strong enough to walk a small collar and chain were provided for him; the sight of Singh at his daily exercise on the boat deck of the liner soon became an event of the day. He proved an affectionate and playful as a kitten, early learning to recognize friends and to keep his already formidable claws carefully sheathed "a playing with them."

It was found that he flourished best on a widely-advertised infant food to which raw eggs were added. He was brushed and groomed every day as carefully as a prize Pekingese; his coat became sleek and glossy and he remained entirely free from any trace of "too smell." Travelling in the suite of His Highness the Maharajah Jam Sahib, Singh quickly became in every sense the lion of the party.

The Italian and the French Governments gave him special facilities for crossing their frontier, but in England as a lion he would fall within the four corners of stringent anti-rabies regulations; and for a while his owners were in despair.

But interest in the journey of an Indian lion cub so young to England, and the ready acceptance by the Zoological Society of London of all responsibility for his future as soon as he became too massive for a country house jointly evoked the sympathy and help of the officials in the Ministry of Agriculture.

The visit of an inspector of the Ministry to the country house which was to be Singh's temporary abiding place resulted in the declaration that, within a few necessary precautions, a large conservatory and a walled rose garden would be suitable quarantine.

To these quarters Singh was transported from Dover in his own car; in them he quickly settled down, becoming, if possible, even more good-tempered and more tractable than he had been before. But, alas! he has grown so much in health and strength that, while his manners are perfect, the responsibility of keeping him has become too great for any but the skilled attendants of the Zoological Society's Gardens.

In his splendid quarters there his friends feel sure that he will not disdain to take notice of the children whom he has come to regard as playmates.

Your Handwriting Reveals Your Character!

Recently, several correspondents have asked questions about the status of Graphology, posing certain objections against it, and in this article I will deal briefly with some of these angles:

"How can handwriting show one's character, when we are taught how to write from the same copybook in school?" The answer to this objection proves how strongly handwriting DOES show character. Because, if you will study the writing of a single class of students who have learned writing from the same copybook, a few years afterwards, you will NOT FIND TWO WHO WRITE ALIKE.

Each one writes differently—a different slant, a different pressure, and differing conformation of letters. This is so, despite the training they have had in a standardized writing hand, and proves that, as one grows, one's character changes, or strengthens, and one's handwriting changes, too.

Does handwriting show the sex of the writer? This question has been asked me quite frequently of late, and my answer is that while it is possible for the trained graphologist to make certain guesses of the sex of the writer at times, there is really no definite scientific foundation for this.

We all know men who write in a feminine hand, and vice versa, women who write a markedly masculine hand—the reason is simply that these people typify these same traits in their characters. Some men are almost feminine in their habits, and there are women who act in an almost masculine way. These characteristics are shown in their handwriting.

Recently, a colleague of mine picked out a dozen specimens of writing from my files, and hiding the names of the writers, asked me to state which were written by men and which were the work of women. This

Wild Turkey Makes Come-back in West

(Medicine Hat News)

On the Prairies the sandhill crane is known as the "wild turkey" of Canada, but though edible it is a very different bird indeed from the genuine wild turkey of the Southern States which is the progenitor of the domestic turkey.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the Wild Animal Park Society at Moosejaw has been experimenting with the wild turkey of the South and from young birds imported now boasts the possession of a flock of 150, the largest in captivity in Canada.

"In 1929 there wasn't a wild turkey in Canada, and our society imported three birds at a cost of $100 in order that we might show the public the difference between sandhill cranes (so often called wild turkeys) and wild turkeys. The only similarity they have is the noise they make while in the air. The birds themselves are about as different as birds could be. We have since imported several more turkeys and have raised and sold turkeys to various parts of Canada, and last fall had a flock of over 150 birds."

"The wild turkey, known in the U. S. as America's grandest game bird, is the finest eating there is in the bird line. There is more white meat in proportion than a domestic turkey and the meat is of a finer texture, sweeter and not so dry. Many of the most successful domestic turkey breeders in the United States are buying wild turkey gobblers and crossing them with the domestic turkey to improve the quality of the domestic birds that, through time, have become too coarse and larger than the market calls for."

"We have over 70 breeding stock. The largest flock in Canada, in fact, more than all the rest of Canada put together, and have been the means of starting the other parts to propagate them, and supplied the breeding stock for most of them. When raised under the ordinary hen they become as tame as domestic turkeys, whereas they are otherwise very wild."

MANY B.C. ROADS END IN WILDERNESS

(Vancouver Province)

As the story comes to us, the Publicity Bureau in Victoria believes that Vancouver Island possesses the highest waterfall in the world. It is the Della Falls, thirteen miles northwest of Great Central Lake, reputed to be 1,580 feet high.

The gazetteers do not support the claim that this is the highest waterfall, but certainly it should rank among the first half dozen known falls in the world.

If the other information about the Della Falls, as given out by the bureau, is true, then we agree that they should be better known. We are told that it is not very large in volume of water, but a genuine waterfall, nevertheless, and a beautiful sight, the noisy music of it to be heard for miles away through the island forest.

It is inaccessible by road, and to reach it you must go by boat to the head of Great Central Lake, and then by a forest trail for thirteen miles, until you come to Della Lake and glacier.

A genuine waterfall, 1,580 feet high, even if the volume of it is not great (ten times as high as Niagara), is indeed a wonderful sight. We do not doubt that the Publicity Bureau is right in thinking that it would be a great tourist attraction if it could be made accessible.

But when it comes to talking about the inaccessible natural beauties of British Columbia, where shall we begin and end? That very country of the Della Falls, which is to all intents and purposes still a terra incognita, is less than halfway up the island. Nearly all the north end of the island, too, is that sort of country.

The Island Highway ends at Menzies Bay, north of Campbell River, and there is a 150-mile stretch of country beyond, practically unknown, with the little coast settlements, of Port Alice and Port Hardy cut off from communication except by sea and air. The occasional explorer—timber cruiser, government surveyor or airman—brings us back word of this country from time to time, agreeing that it is a beautiful wilderness, but nobody else ever gets into it. It is an hour by air from this city, and it is beautiful country unknown.

We speak of all this just by way of reminder. It is useful, it seems to us, that we should get such reminders from time to time. We know that such reminders are little likely to eventuate, for a long time to come, in the project of opening up our unknown British Columbia.

We suppose it is not much use to expatiate upon all these highways of ours that end in the wilderness—we have got to get them made passable before we can extend them—but we ought to remind ourselves about them every little while. Do you realize that the straight road between Vancouver and Calgary is cut off by an eighty-mile gap between Revelstoke and Golden, and that you must make a 200-mile detour in our own territory in order to complete that journey by road?

There is no road through to Prince Rupert. The road up the North Thompson out of Kamloops, reaching up towards Jasper, ends in the wilderness. A 200-mile trail continues the east-west road from the Cariboo through the Chilcotin to Bella Coola on the coast.

Most of our great inland empire of British Columbia—do you realize it?—after seventy years of discovery and settlement—is still wilderness, still almost the country of the unknown.

Appointment Honor To Farming People Says Mrs. Fallis

Peterborough, Ont. — Unperturbed by her appointment, Canada's second lady Senator, Mrs. Howard T. Fallis, carries on her household hold duties as usual.

"I consider the appointment as an honor to the farming people of the country," she declares. "I am going to Ottawa to present them."

Mrs. Fallis states politics are in her blood. "Even when I was a little girl I used to stay away from school to attend political meetings. My father was considered the best impromptu speaker in the district, and perhaps I inherit some of my ability from him."

The woman Senator has made a wide survey of political history, and in addition to studying Hansard where the House is in session, she has read every biography of famous men and women who could get her hands on it.

LESSON NO. 65

Composition—Part 4
Even though it is many, many years since I first learned how to accurately locate the proper positions for spots in pictorial spaces, I shall never forget the thrill when I first mastered the principle as demonstrated in this lesson.

In order to locate the spot as illustrated in FIG. NO. 205 of LESSON NO. 64, first divide the top line of the rectangle into five equal parts, then divide the line on the left side into five equal parts. Now draw a horizontal line separating the two upper measures as illustrated in FIG. NO. 206. What have we learned? We know how to divide a rectangle into two HORIZONTAL AREAS in the ratio of 2 to 3.

Now what do you know? If you have learned the import of this lesson so far, there will be no more need of us to enter into further details and explanations of why these areas are related harmoniously. Neither is it necessary to explain the scientific reason, for this would necessitate many explanations and demonstrations of ross the top of the rectangle FIG. NO. 205, equals 10. The addition of 6 and 9 taken across the bottom section of the rectangle, equals 15. The simple ratio of 10 to 15 equal 2 to 3. The addition of 4 and 6 to the left of the rectangle equals 10. The addition of 6 and 9 to the right of the rectangle equals 15. So here again we find the ratio equals 2 to 3, demonstrating both the truth and the harmony of the principle we are endeavoring to convey to you.

Now find the method how to divide a similar rectangle into two VERTICAL AREAS. The answer is in FIG. NO. 207.

Thus we learn that in composition the ratio of 2 to 3 in measure divides a rectangle into what is known in the profession as "Odd and Even" parts. Such is the effect of proper placement according to a well-established law of proportion. The result is very pleasing to our sense of vision.

Proceed as demonstrated in FIG. NO. 208, thus dividing the rectangle into four smaller areas. Now if we divide these areas with a unit area of measure we find all areas are harmoniously related to each other and the whole in the following ratios: Area 4 to Area 6, as Area 6 is to Area 9. Thus we have:

4 is to 6 as 2 is to 3
6 is to 9 as 2 is to 3
The addition of 4 and 6 taken across ten descending to the minutest details of Physics and the science of sound as expressed in Music.

'Death Rays' Cure Rickets

Precise Measurements Taken on Curative Value of Sunshine — in Millionth Units

Cambridge, Mass.—The first complete measurements of what it is in sunshine that is good for children's bones were reported recently—and it brought out the possibility that long ago sunshine may have been different.

REPORT ON FINDINGS

The report was made to the conference on spectroscopy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by John W. M. Bunker and Louis Harris of the department of biology and public health of Massachusetts Tech. They have measured, precisely and completely, the kind of light which prevents and cures rickets in children.

Despite the fact that Vitamin D, whether in food, oil or from sunshine, cures this malady, rickets still is fairly widespread in the United States.

The sunshine cure is ultra-violet, or sun tan, light, whether from the sun or from artificial lamps. With the precision instruments of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Bunker and Dr. Harris have been measuring for several years, the exact wave lengths of ultra-violet lights that cure, and the amount of energy in each light wave.

The result—the light waves range from 2,537 to 3,025. These measurements are in Angstrom units, or 250-millionths of an inch.

EXPERIMENTS ON RATS

The experiments are made on rats, in which the rickets were induced by a diet deficient in Vitamin D, and cured in 10 days exposure to ultra-violet light.

The strange fact is that nearly all the curative light is artificial.

"It happens," said the report, "to be a biological anomaly that animals of strictly nocturnal habits subject to rickets can be cured of this disease by light, and especially by light of wave lengths which in nature never reach the earth."

This refers to the fact that most of the wave lengths which cure rickets are filtered out by the ozone in the stratosphere before they reach the earth's surface. They are among the so-called "death rays," says which supposedly would be fatal to life if unmitigated like the other rays of the sun.

Yet they are found to be healthful, at least in small quantities. They are made by mercury vapor lamps. They would cure children even as they cure rats.

POPULAR BELIEF UPSET

The crux of the puzzle is that rats, in their natural state, are nocturnal, are never supposed to see the sunshine, nor to be protected by it.

According to widely accepted beliefs of evolution, if the rat has never lived in sunshine he should not be capable of responding to sunshine as these rickety rats do.

More especially, he should under no circumstances be cured by a kind of sunshine which as far as present conditions show never reached the earth at any time in even the remote past.

The cures suggest that at some time long ago the ancestors of present day rats lived in sunshine different from today's rays, sun which shone more intensely, driving its rays, shorter in wave length than any today, completely through the earth's atmosphere.

Present day rats then might well have inherited the ability to respond to these rays, now naturally extinct. Other explanations are difficult to interpret.

If Barber Crops Your Tresses You've Only Yourself To Blame

Girls with beautiful long tresses have only themselves to blame if they allow them to be shorn by an absent-minded barber.

This is the judgment of the Paris Court of Appeals.

It was given in the case of Mlle Aurelia Branca, a film actress, who went to a fashionable hair dressing establishment in Paris to have her long luxuriant hair trimmed and came out bobbed.

When she saw her golden hair shimmering on the floor after a couple of snips of the scissors she was furious, told the barber what she thought, and sued for damages of $1,500.

In the Civil Court the judge ordered the barber to pay the actress, $550. But the barber took the case to the Court of Appeals and the decision of the Lower Court was reversed, the judges saying that any woman of this day, and age of bobbed hair must carefully follow the barber's fingers if she wishes to retain her long hair.

"We should say that we are worried, not so much by what has happened, as by what may be in store for us in the future."—James M. Warburg.

curb midnight parties holding high revelry on the township beach, was called a few nights ago to disperse a company of near nudists disgracing themselves in the water. According to Mr. Gray, some of those who frequent this spot are so indifferent to warning that sterner methods will have to be adopted to stop the goings in the water, it required several stitches to close the wound.Harry Brown, employed in the

He was attended by Dr. M. S. Heddie.Relief in the township has dropped

Opens Campaign

Liberal administration would abolish legislation giving the government power to enact measures by order in council for peace, order and good government.Under the guise of emergency measures the Bennett government had carried out a deliberate policy directed at accumulating the public mind to "the framework of the Fascist state."
Canadians had had enough of one-man government.In his next radio talk, Mr. King said he would deal in greater detail with "Canada's most urgent national problem" unemployment.

Platform in 1933

The Liberal party's platform was in-sued in Feb., 1933 two and a half years ago, Mr. King continued. It was not all-conclusive but "viewed as a whole, you will find, I think, that the policies set forth constitute a sound basis for the reconstruction of the national life of our Dominion."Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler were dictators "but do we want that sort of thing in Canada? And will it succeed in this country? Never forget that in Italy, in Germany, in Russia, it has all been brought about in the name of social reform but at the price of political freedom. It means," said Mr. King,
"the end of self-government of democratic government, of government by parliament, of government by a cabinet."The Liberal party is opposed to state assistance and a legitimate measure of state control in the marketing of natural products."What the Liberal party objects to in the Marketing Act are provisions which give to the governor in council, apart from parliament altogether, power to restrict imports and exports and to local groups, not representative of any legislative bodies, power, apart from the approval of parliament, to make binding regulations and to create fines and penalties."Fiction of a Liberal government at Ottawa to cap Liberal victories in the provinces would provide the best kind of a national government to cope with industrial and social problems, Liberal Leader Mackenzie King declared in his third broadcast speech. It would ensure co-operation between the federal and provincial governments because all would be of one mind and it would make the elimination of constitutional difficulties easy.Provision of useful work for the unemployed for which the men would be paid wages, although a lower rate than in private undertakings was the objective of the Liberal party. Nation-wide co-operation was necessary to a solution of the problem, he declared as he amplified the Liberal policy of a representative national commission to deal with all relief administration and to devise means of providing work for the unemployed.The commission would enlist the cooperation of all agencies, provincial governments, municipalities and public bodies competent to make a contribution to its aims. It would be able to avoid overlapping and duplication of effort and eliminate relief rackets and abuses.Reviewing the unemployment situation, Mr. King said Prime Minister R.
B. Bennett had promised to end unemployment in 1930 but unemployment had increased four-fold since then. Mr. Bennett had failed because he had not understood the seriousness of the problem. As yet there had never been a national registry of the unemployed and the government had not thought it worthwhile to obtain and complete information on the subject.Mr. Bennett had tried, Mr. King said, but he had tried to do too much himself. The problem was too big for one man. It requires united, nationwide effort such as could be organized under a national committee. The department of soldiers' settlement after the war and the patriotic fund, during the war were examples which might be followed in setting up the commission although each situation demanded appropriate treatment. The idea would be the same, namely, to enlist the co-operation of all agencies and arouse the will and spirit of the people.Liberals took no issue with Mr.
Bennett on the need for social reform, said Mr. King. They did challenge the means he adopted towards accomplishing reform and they believed he was confusing reform with reconstruction. Economic recovery was a necessary preliminary to any sound scheme of social reform. A structure of social service could not be reared on stationary or diminishing national income.
It would be the policy of a Liberal government to remove the shackles from trade and make economic recovery a reality.As to the methods of reform it was now clear a broad scheme of social reform could only be achieved through the close co-operation of Dominion andprovincial governments. To ignore the provinces or invade constitutional rights was to make a dangerous attack on the foundations of the nation.
A Liberal government at Ottawa would be able to achieve real co-operation with Liberal governments in the provinces.Touching on the relief camp troubles Mr. King said the camps were breeding grounds for communism and defeatism. The men in them were easy prey for dangerous agitators.
The Regina riot arose from ruthless handling of the situation.

Provide Useful Work

Under a Liberal government it would be the aim to provide useful works for the unemployed, work in which the men engaged could take pride, such as building roads, improving parks, afforestation, development of airway facilities and slum clearance. All would be directed by the national commission and the men engaged would be paid wages, although on a lower scale than in private undertakings. The commission would also be invited to consider re-moving the camps from the jurisdiction of the National Defence Department.Several times throughout his speech Mr. King warned his hearers against expecting too much from governments. He said with the experience of the past few years before him he would be more sparing in his promises or benefits from state action than
Mr. Bennett, Hon. H. H. Stevens or J.
S. Woodsworth. He also said the expenditure of public money to provide relief and to provide work could not continue indefinitely.The commission, however, could work out a long-range scheme of national development embodying all sorts of useful works. As conditions warranted from time to time the scheme could be proceeded with or discontinued.All employment provided would be in the nature of constructive work and of a kind which would serve to increase "the social capital of the country as distinct from the private capital."
